

Telephone solicitations should be controlled at the industries expense. A national do not call list should be available. No charge to the user. Standard question asked when ordering a new phone line. No calls from unsolicited individuals should be allowed to call anyone on the do not call list. This way the consumer decides. A true democracy. If no one wants calls then the industry will fail as should be the case if the people wish it. Sure people will lose jobs but they will be back in some other form of sales position. America has no shortage of sales positions for good career sales people.
